MEETING OF WORKMEN.—The workmen of the Fourth Ward held an informal meeting last evening, for consultation as to the course they should pursue in the coming fall campaign. Mr. Samuel Darrah was elected President, and Mr. A. L. Wells Secretary. The latter stated the object of the meeting.

He said that the independent voters were tired of the old parties, and the ruin they have wrought, and representative men from the different trades were invited to this informal meeting for the purpose of advising together as to the best way to devise and carry out a plan for the forthcoming elections.

The speaker claimed that the workingmen were able to poll from 300 to 700 votes; "but," he added, "our candidates will probably be martyrs to the cause, as he expected that the masses up will be knocked down." He advised his hearers to a test, win or lose. If they lost it would be only for the time being, as time would give them wisdom and strength, and their principles would prevail.

He believed it the duty of the independent voters of Wheeling to cut loose forever from the old parties, which, he claimed, had brought the country to its present deplorable condition, through vicious class legislation in favor of the Communists, Rothschilds, Shermans, Belmonts & Co., who told not, nor spin nor hater, where they have not sown and gathered, where they have not sown and gathered, where they have not sown and gathered.

The poor we have always with us, made so by the aforesaid Communists, and cared for only by the workmen.

On motion, Mr. Sam'l Darrah was elected as permanent President, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the removal from the city of the former President, J. W. Barton. John Robinson was elected as permanent Secretary, and various members were added to the Executive committee.

It was resolved to hold a county convention at the Court House on Saturday, June 29, 1878, at 9 o'clock A. M. On motion, a committee of three was appointed to prepare an address to the voters of the county.

Adjourned to meet at Swartz's Hall, Fifth Ward, Monday week.

AN EFFETUAL STUMP PULLER.—Our philosophical friend, James M. Dillon, as we have noted at some length, is in the oil business out west, that is the essential oils, such as Sassafras, Peppermint, etc.

He is gathering of Sassafras trees here to-day, being expensive, requiring from fifteen to twenty men to dig enough roots to keep Mr. Dillon's mill supplied. But Mr. D. finds his inventive faculty equal to any emergency, and in order to obviate the expense of digging, or as he termed it, to dig a minimum, he has invented a very simple but at the same time very powerful machine for pulling up sassafras trees by the roots.

The machine, with two men and a horse, will do the work of twenty-five men, but he ever so expert in the use of the ax and the machete. Those who have examined the steering apparatus in the pilot house of a steamboat or the ordinary hoisting machines used in warehouses will readily comprehend the construction of the machine. It is merely the wheel and axle in its simplest form.

Instead of the handle on the pilot wheel, there is a groove around the edge as in the hoisting wheel. In this groove is wound a stout line, to one end of which the horse is hitched. On the axle or drum a stout chain is fixed in the form of a loop. When the tree is cut, the handle on the machine, which is on wheels, is drawn over the stump, the chain is looped on to it, the horse is started and in a jiffy up comes the stump with its oleaginous roots. Pullies are so arranged as to take every conceivable advantage of the ground so that the horse is not only aided by the strength of the material used in its construction. With the aid of this powerful factor and some philosophical improvements in the process of distillation, Mr. Dillon expects to be able to put on the market the products of his factory at prices that will defy competition.

COLLISION.—Yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, a four-horse team loaded with lumber, while coming down Market street, near 12th, collided with a team going in the opposite direction. A street car came along and got jammed in among them, and in trying to get out of the way, backed against a beer wagon. The driver of the beer wagon swore in choice Holland, another threw in some favorite expressions from the French and Italian, and the four-horse team contributed a few naughty words from the Russian tongue, and the street car conductor swore fluently in Holland, French and Russian, and Chocotaw beside. The street car passengers enjoyed the scene.
